

I am very much in favor of XM Satellite Radio to offer local traffic and weather channels, or any other service that benefits their listeners. What gives the NAB the right to try to limit XM or any other station's content as long as it is not for obscenity reasons? If the other stations are afraid of the competition, they should improve their content, which for the most part is really poor!

I request that the FCC reject NAB's petition 04-160.
